FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY AT 31 OCT 2025

Advanced Micro Devices (AMD) was a strong performer in October, rising over 58%. AMD and OpenAI signed a multi-year strategic partnership to deploy 6 gigawatts of AMD GPUs, starting with the MI450 series. The first gigawatt deployment is scheduled for the second half of 2026, making OpenAI a lead customer for AMD's MI450 and Helios rack-scale solutions. AMD issued OpenAI a warrant equating to a 10% stake in AMD common stock, with vesting tied to gigawatt-scale GPU deployments and certain share price milestones. The partnership may generate more than US$100bn in revenue in the coming years, far exceeding AMD's projected US$33bn for 2025. AMD has been a distant second behind Nvidia since the launch of ChatGPT in October 2022, both in terms of operational execution and share price performance. The deal with OpenAI enhances AMD's credibility in both the datacentre and stock markets, which should help to narrow the gap.
